José Queirós

Real estate agent, urban planner and restaurateur

José Queirós is the driving force behind some of the most successful renovation projects to have taken place in Lisbon's old districts in recent years, such as the LX Factory (see below). He is also the owner of former-brothel-now-cool-cocktail-bar Pensão Amor and new traditional Portuguese restaurant Casa de Pasto, which serves food cooked and presented the way it was in the late 1800s. Queirós is currently working on the reinvigoration of Desterro Convent/Hospital in Intendente, pensaoamor.pt

Cais do Sodré

Former dockside

"Cais do Sodré remains such a special Lisbon district. Although it's no longer the den of iniquity it once was when frequented by sailors and prostitutes, it retains a palpable authentic identity because of that past. That's also why the district has become so popular, with plenty of bars, burlesque clubs and restaurants opening up."

Lisbon's riverfront

"Few cities have a riverfront as long and beautiful as Lisbon's. It's an urban luxury in a sense and, for me, there's nothing else like it in the city. No wonder it's also my favourite spot to go jogging."

LX Factory

103 Rua Rodrigues de Faria, lxfactory.com

"This huge, 23,000 square metre former fabric factory is today a hub for numerous creative businesses - from architects to photographers, fashion designers to musicians. There are always engaging, entertaining events on and it's also a place to eat and drink. Transforming this space into what it is today was the accomplishment of a personal dream."
